Supreme Judicial Court

No Agreement on Manslaughter Case. Eighteen Divorces Granted

The first case on the criminal docket last week was an indictment against Hadjie Benjoudah for larceny from the person. The charge was that Benjoudah had taken the sum of $430 from John J. Hodgkins of Bridgton at Watford Fair, October 6.

It appears that Mr. Hodgkins, who is 92 years old, is a night watchman for the narrow gauge railroad. He does not believe in banks and keeps his savings in rolls of $100 in five and ten dollar bills. When he visited the fair he had ten of these rolls with him. In the course of his travels he visited the tent of Prof. Benjoudah, who professes to be an astrologer, and while there the Professor removed Hodgkins' money, blessed it and supposedly returned it. Some time after leaving the place, Hodgkins discovered a shortage and notified a deputy sheriff, who arrested Benjoudah.

The defense introduced testimony showing that the old man had been accompanied about the grounds by two men, names not known, whose reputations were not of the best, and also that the amount taken was originally set at $200, then $300, and finally at $430 in the indictment.

County Attorney Planagan was for State, and Harry M. Shaw and Alton C. Wheeler for the defense. The verdict was "guilty."

The second criminal case was against Sargent Coleman of Lovell for operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor. The case took about a whole day, the jury deliberating three hours. County Attorney Planagan was for the State, and A. J. Stearns and A. E. Stearns for Coleman. Verdict, "guilty."

The next case was the State vs. Carina Cundliff, who was indicted for a on in setting fire to her own house at Smith's Crossing, Rumford. This occurred July 31st. After the fire, Chief Merrell of the Rumford fire department made an investigation, finding several places where fires had been set. There were two insurance policies on the house and furniture amounting to $2500. Mrs. Cundliff stated that she was away from home at the time, returning from a neighbors with one of her children. G. A. Hutchins was attorney for the defense. The verdict was not guilty.

The case of Boris Beliski for unlawful possession was next. Deputy Sheriff Rodrick, Reed and Eustis visited Beliski's farm in Rumford on the night of June 2, when the family was away, finding 150 gallons of cider and some gin and whiskey. The defense stated that the cider was made by Beliski for his own use, and the liquor was brought there unknown to Beliski by a person named Brunelle. A. E. Stearns was Beliski's attorney. Verdict, guilty.

Joe Zekelousis and Annie Zekelousis, husband and wife, had been indicted for unlawful possession. Joe Zekelousis tried on this indictment. Deputy Sheriff Rodrick and Eustis and Chief of Police Dennis were at the Zekelousis place on Holyoke Ave., Rumford, on the night of Aug. 19. They found a number of people there intoxicated. The cellar bottom was wet with beer and there was some in the sink, of which they obtained a sample. A. E. Stearns appeared as attorney for defense. Verdict, guilty.

Next was the appealed case of Joe McNeil and Mannel Arsenault of Rumford, for unlawful possession. Deputy Sheriff Rodrick, Reed and Eustis discovered the men taking alcohol from a "hide" in a vacant lot. One of the men was taken with two half pint bottles. Angelo Urbano was for the defense. The verdict was not guilty.

The case of Walter J. Irvine, aged 15, of South Paris, who had been indicted for manslaughter, was taken up Friday forenoon. Gordon Wheeler, ten year old son of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Wheeler, was struck and instantly killed by a Studebaker touring car owned by Kenneth Blomson and driven by Irvine on the narrow bridge at Trap Corner on Sunday, Oct. 7.

On the day of the accident Irvine and Blomson attended services at the Norway Congregational Church, after which they invited some girls to a ride. Two girls were on the front seat and one on the back seat with Blomson. They had gone to West Paris and were returning to Trap Corner when they met a Ford coupe driven by Irwin Hubbard on the bridge. They tumbled mudguards with this car and then struck the Wheeler boy, crushing him against the side of the bridge. Dr. W. B. Raymond, medical examiner, reported the cause of death was a broken neck.

The question of brakes on the Blomson car was the chief topic, the car having gone 123 feet after the accident before stopping. Officer Patton testified that he examined the brakes and they were not working properly. Irvine said he had not noticed any trouble with the brakes. Both Irvine and Blomson thought they were going about 25 miles per hour, and the argument of the defense was that Irvine was confused after the accident and lost control temporarily.

BETHEL MAN LOSES CAR

A Ford touring car belonging to O. C. Bryant was stolen last Saturday. A young man, giving his name as Belmont Hatch, hired the car to go and get his pay for working on the road. It appears that two young men, Arthur and Ralph Mosher, one of whom had hired the car, were seen by Bethel people driving the Bryant car toward Upton, and they staid Saturday night at Errol. There they sold the spotlight which was on the car. When taken the car bore Maine license plates H2194 and had a spotlight, moto-meter and tub odometer.

County Attorney Planagan was for the State and E. Walker Abbott and Alton C. Wheeler for Irvine. The jury went out about 10 o'clock Saturday morning. At 4:30 that afternoon they had reached no agreement and were excused. Irvine was released on $1000 bonds for his appearance at court from term to term.

Saturday afternoon the following sentences were handed out by Justice Dunn:

Raymond O. Winter, operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor. Sixty days in jail.

Dominic Gironda, unlawful possession. Fine of $300 and three months in jail, or in default of fine six months additional.

John Velush, Rudolph Patnaude and Leo Giroux, boys of about 14, breaking and entering and larceny. Committed to State School for Boys during their minority, or an alternative sentence of ninety days in jail.

Ralph Thomas, Joseph Kurisko and George Ganvin, boys of about 18, larceny. Sentenced to thirty days in jail, to date from Sept. 21, the time when they were committed on this charge.

Bronis Beliski, convicted of unlawful possession. Fine of $100 and two months in jail.

Joe Zekelousis, unlawful possession. Fine of $200 and three months in jail.

William LaFrance, nuisance. Fine of $300 and four months in jail.

Lucian Brunelle, illegal transportation. Fine of $300 and three months in jail.

Otto Koski, possession of still and mash. Fine of $100 and two months in jail.

Auro Grennan, manufacturing liquor. Fine of $100 and two months in jail, to date from Aug. 21.

Darwin M. Sweet and Vera Gallant, adultery. Six months in jail.

Merrill E. Porter and Charlotte Smith, Reformatory. Porter committed to Men's Reformatory. Charlotte Smith, four months in jail.

Joseph Danour, failure to support wife. Ordered to pay his wife ten dollars per week for one year, and to recognize in the sum of $300.

Merle Swan, forgery of check. Three months in jail.

Arthur J. Patnaude, operating motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor. Fine of $100 and costs.

Halji Benjoudah, larceny from the person. Sentence, not less than one year nor more than two years in state prison.

Dora Drakos, who had pleaded guilty to manufacturing liquor. Case continued for sentence.

Edward Walton of Lewiston, was before the court Monday on charge of drunken driving. It was reported that he was unable to attend court but Judge Dunn ordered the sheriffs to get him, which they did. The charge was brought against him by Constable Bennett of Bethel, following a crash at North Bethel on the night of July 11th. In the Norway Municipal Court he pleaded not guilty. He was fined $300 and given 30 days in jail sentence, from which he appealed. An indictment was returned against him by the grand jury at this term of court. He was given a sentence of two months in jail.

Eighteen divorces were granted.

Ellis E. Harding from Charles H. Harding; non support. Custody of children to mother. Father to pay $12 a week for their care.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE LETTER WRITING CONTEST

The eight boys and girls of this county included in the 112 agricultural club members who made the trip to the Eastern States Exposition in Springfield, Mass., last month, as guests of the Maine State Chamber of Commerce, are entitled to take part in a prize letter writing contest.

The State Chamber offers prizes of $10, $10 and $5 for the three best letters received before Nov. 10, from the 112 Maine boys and girls who composed the Springfield party. Three judges will be chosen to make the awards.

A letter, signed by President George P. West and Secretary A. L. T. Cummings of the State Chamber, outlining the plan of the contest, contains these suggestions to those who are to compete:

Tell us in your letters what real benefits, other than pleasures, you received during the nine days you were absent from your homes.

What interested you most?

Will the experience help you in your school work and club work?

Will you be better able, because of the trip, to help in your home and your community?

Is it your opinion that the State Chamber of Commerce should make the Springfield trip an annual feature? If so, why?

ROUND MOUNTAIN GRANGE

Round Mountain Grange held its regular meeting Oct. 20 with a large number in attendance. They are preparing for a sale, Harvest Supper and dance on the afternoon and evening of Oct. 31st. All patrons and friends are cordially invited to attend. After the routine work the following literary program was enjoyed.

Roll Call, consummation.

Reading, "Who Was to Blame," Mrs. Bruce.

Song, Mrs. Frances Wardwell.

Reading, "An Opinion," Nancy Andrews.

Question: "What is being done to develop the resources of the Community, and who is doing the work?"

Opened by Bro. Donahue, followed by F. H. Wardwell, A. A. Bruce and others.

Reading, Ruth Kimball.

Reading, "It Couldn't Be Done," Hazel Wardwell.

Reading, "Blat Be the Tie," Olive Little.

Closing song, "Blat Be the Tie." Grange closed in form.

IMPERSONATOR AT CHAUTAUQUA

Roseth Knapp Breed, who gives the afternoon program of the second afternoon of the coming Chautauqua, is said to be absolutely without a peer in her particular line of work. She is not an ordinary reader. She has developed a new art. She is a remarkable impersonator of humorous characters with an unusual understanding of human nature. Her wonderful natural ability enables her to depict different characters in such a way that her own personality fades and you are conscious only of the character she is portraying. She does not exaggerate to get her effects. She makes folks live, and the audience does not laugh at them, but with them.

Who has not met the fatuous mother, the tiresome spoiled child, the woman who uses her mouth and not her brain, the gum-chewing shop girl?

Willie Mrs. Breed aims to amuse and "chase dull care away," there is always at least one number on her program that grips the heart. She has woven her program together so that there are no tedious pauses. Without the use of wigs or grease paint, but, gifted with an unusual voice and wonderful facial expression, by using costumes, she is able to make quick changes on the platform while the audience watches each transformation.

The Toledo Times said of Roseth Knapp Breed: "Through her affiliation with the Lyceum and Chautauqua because the theatrical profession has lost a wonderful character artist."

Mrs. Breed is by no means dependent upon costumes, her monologues and humorous direct speech given in evening dress are some of the charming parts of her program.

She has appeared on the Chautauqua and Lyceum platforms from the Atlantic to the Pacific, in the United States and Canada, with many noted lecturers, among whom are Chief Justice William Howard Taft, William Jennings Bryan, Ruth Bryan Owens, Irvin Cobb, Lord, Taft and Mark Sullivan. The latter, after hearing Mrs. Breed give an impersonation of "Aunt Eliza" from down in Maine, said, "You have given me a rare treat the past ten minutes. I thought I was back in old New England."

Smith; non support.

Any Proctor from Percy Proctor; gross and confirmed habits of intoxication.

Minnie J. Goodfellow from Bernard Goodfellow; cruel and abusive treatment.

Bella H. Coburn from Archie Coburn; cruel and abusive treatment.

Crystal Herick from Frank H. Herick; desertion. Custody of child to mother.

Morgan—Curtis

A quiet wedding occurred Friday evening, Oct. 19, at the home of Rev. Eleanor B. Forbes, West Paris, when Robert C. Morgan and Calista Curtis of Greenwood were united in marriage.

The couple were attended by Miss Tina Potter of Montreal and Ernest Mundt of Bethel.

Mrs. Morgan is the daughter of Ernest Curtis of Greenwood and was graduated from Gould Academy, class of 1926. Since her graduation she has taught in Greenwood schools.

Mrs. Thomas W. Vashaw

The many friends of Mrs. Thomas Vashaw were grieved to learn of her death which occurred at the St. Louis Hospital, Berlin, about 2:45 Wednesday morning, October 17. Her death was the result of injuries sustained in an automobile accident on Wednesday, October 3, on the Shelburne road. Although Mrs. Vashaw's injuries were severe, hopes were entertained that she might recover and everything that loving care and expert medical attention could devise was tried but in vain.

Sadie G. Seribner Vashaw was born in Bethel, 49 years ago, the daughter of the late E. H. Seribner and Mary M. Tyler Seribner. Her girlhood was spent in her native town where she attended school. About 20 years ago she was united in marriage to Thomas Vashaw. Mrs. Vashaw was a true helpmate in every sense of the word. Her husband who has been for years with the Woods department of the Brown Company, holding a responsible position, was for a number of years in the heart of the woods in charge of lumbering camps employing large crews of men. Mrs. Vashaw went with her husband and worked as cook. Her kindness and thoughtfulness of the men when they were sick and the tender care she gave them has often been spoken of and there are many who will remember her many acts of kindness.

Mrs. Vashaw was a true Christian woman, who believed in doing everything to help alleviate the suffering of an unfortunate neighbor. She did a great deal of charity and her hospitality and kindness were well known by her friends.

Funeral services were held Friday at one o'clock from the Congregational Church at Berlin. Rev. Henry Stallard officiated. Interment was in the family lot at West Bethel where Rev. L. A. Edwards offered prayer and the members of Bethel Grange were in attendance. The abundance of beautiful flowers were silent testimony of the esteem and respect in which she was held by relatives and friends.

Mrs. Vashaw is survived by her husband and a daughter, Eloyce, of Berlin, and two sisters, Mrs. Stella Goodridge of West Bethel and Mrs. F. O. Robertson of Bethel.

FARM BUREAU NEWS

Little Red Hen Club to Meet Saturday Morning

There will be a meeting of the Little Red Hen Club at the Grammar School building, Saturday morning, Oct. 27, at 10 o'clock.

It is planned to continue the club work through the winter by taking up the Poultry Management Project.

Miss Plummer, the County Club Agent, will be present to explain the work.

The parents of the Club members and any interested friends are cordially invited to be present to hear Miss Plummer and so get a better idea of what the Club work is, and means to the boys and girls and the community.

Now is the time to see that your boy has at least ten good pullets and starts with the rest in this new Club Project.

IMPORTANCE OF 4-H CLUB WORK IN OXFORD COUNTY

Club work is important in Oxford County to train the young people in better practices in Agriculture and Home Economics. It gets hold of them while their minds are plastic and gives them guidance when they need it. It provides opportunity for them to share their ability and gives them a part in solving problems.

Club work trains the boys and girls to conduct meetings in an orderly way, to demonstrate, and it teaches them how to work and cooperate with others. It develops leadership and emphasizes the home.

Club work in Oxford County in a condensed form; we have the following characteristics:

1. 4-H club boys and girls are demonstrators.

2. 4-H club boys and girls work.

3. 4-H club boys and girls do the needful, wholesome and helpful thing.

4. 4-H club boys and girls play the game fairly.

5. 4-H club boys and girls work together, play together, cooperate and achieve.

6. 4-H club boys and girls build up their bodies and health through right living. They train their hands to be useful, the minds to think clearly; their hearts are kind.

SUBTLETY.

An Oxford undergraduate, a son of the village, discovered he was uncomfortably short of money, so he spent some time concocting a letter that would have the right effect upon a somewhat severe parent.

When finally completed, the letter read as follows:

"My dear father, I wonder if you will oblige me very greatly by sending me a copy of this month's parish magazine, and a five-pound note? P. S.—Don't forget the parish magazine."

Not Responsible

Husband (anxiously)—My wife seems not to have the slightest interest in life.

Doctor—What makes you think that?

"Well, I've tried her with golf, billiards, football and racing, and it's just like talking to a stone!"

WHAT FLAVOR?

"I shot got in a jam yesterday, Jim."

"What kinda jam, Billy?"

"Think it was strawberry."

Wonderful

"You know Dorothy—great fellow for detail."

"He is, that! He's the sort of chap who would go and get married and be able afterward to tell you whether it was Mendelssohn, Lohengrin or Tannhauser they played during the ceremony."

Won't Need It Long

Auto Prospector—You have shown me that your new car can go 70 miles an hour. But will such a car last?

Agent—My dear friend, don't let that worry you. Anyone who drives 70 miles an hour will not need any car long.

Confused Orders

Household (stammering)—Look here, you'll have to get your dress-maker to cut out some of those dresses you've ordered.

Wife—Thank you, darling. I'll phone her to start on them at once! They're perfectly sweet patterns!

One Last Request

Doctor—About nice patients out of town don't live through this operation. Is there anything I can do for you before we begin?

Unlucky Patient—Yes, sir. Kindly hand me my hat—"Selected" by the Congregation!

Easily Named

Very Polite Visitor—Did you have any difficulty in choosing names for babies?

Kind Mother—Not the slightest. You see, dear, we've only one rich relative.

THE BEST

Shirley—What do you like best about school?

Fat Kid—Going home from it.

Literature

A novelist was chatting with his publisher. "By the way, where did you get the plot of your second novel?" asked the latter.

"From the film version of the first," was the reply.

What Does It Matter?

"Did you really understand the learned lecture you heard last night?"

"No, but that didn't matter. I had a free ticket!" —Gems of the Sage (Helsing).

Another Problem Solved

Dick—If I mailed a letter addressed to "the dumbest man in Chicago," I wonder who they'd deliver it to?

Samuel (innocently)—They'd probably return it to the sender.

Making It Real

Clark (stammering)—There! I've just sent an imaginary ball over the sky line.

Fred (laughing)—Well, go straight away and play your second.

Talented

Queen—Pat's been spreading gossip about you.

June—Yes, that girl collects dirt like a vacuum cleaner and puts it out like a perfect heater.

RAYMOND found the package on his table when he went up to dress for the Flemmings' dance. He had thought that he would give up dancing, but this was a particular occasion, Billy Flemmings having a birthday and his wife insisting on a real old-time party.

So Raymond had tied himself to his favorite shoe shop and been fitted to dancing pumps, and the oblong box testified to their arrival at the last minute. Raymond dressed leisurely, and when he had finished he untied the oblong box and opened it.

There he stopped aghast. Instead of a pair of shiny patent leather pumps, he found neatly in the white tissue paper a tiny pair of high-heeled slippers, frivolous cloth of gold trifles that glistened in the light.

"Hang it all—of course, I can't wear these," he told the world in a complaining tone. "Of all the absurd mistakes—well, Mrs. Billy, you can count one dancing man out." He put the little slippers away in his chest-drawer, smiling indulgently at them as he did so. Some little duffy thing might be sighing for these very slippers, but she could not help smiling at the sight of his new and shining pumps when they reached her!

"Not dancing?" asked Mrs. Billy, frowning at him.

He told her that, lacking dancing shoes, he had ordered them and had been disappointed in their delivery.

"You are like poor Nellie Warren—she says she received an enormous pair of men's shoes instead of her own—she is wearing an old pair and is as cross as can be. Go and find her and dance with her—fellow sufferers should console each other."

Raymond skirted the dancers and found a comfortable place for wait-flovers. He wondered which girl would prove to be Nellie Warren. He rather liked her name, simple and unassuming, but she would have been splendid in gold slippers!

He fell to watching the dancing feet of the girls, noting the dainty footgear until his eyes were dazzled with the procession of silver slippers and gold slippers and colored ones. Then he started, for tripping along in perfect time to Bill Flemmings' ponderous feet, were a tiny pair of shabby gray slippers—they were emergency shoes, he knew, for they were worn with golden laced silk hose and a golden tissue fruch.

The girl herself—he caught a glimpse of a dark, bewitching face, golden lined eyes, a flash of rose color in cheeks and lips, and she was gone. She might not be his Cinderella of the slippers, but she was undoubtedly a wonderful girl.

"Hello!" followed Flemmings' voice beside him. "Do take care of Miss Warren—Raymond, Arch Raymond—you've heard of him Nellie! Can't dance tonight because he hasn't any shoes. I am called to the phone—!" He drifted away into the crowd and Raymond smiled down at the wonderful shoes when Fate had sent to him.

"Aren't you going to dance?" she asked as her little feet kept time to the stirring music.

He glanced down at his feet. "I might try—I'm a clumsy beggar at my best," he apologized.

"Don't play the said teasingly after a while she may be caused for breath!" he said only had the stunning pair of patent leather pumps that came to me instead of my own darling golden shoes—you couldn't dance a bit better than you do!"

"Is that a compliment or otherwise?"

"It isn't otherwise!" she laughed. Later in the evening they had danced together so often that people were smiling indulgently at Arch Raymond. His appearance at a dance was a mark of signal triumph for his hostess, and that he should be wearing slippers at the shrine of penitence Nellie Warren was a social triumph for the girl.

They had supper together, and when the huge birthday cake was cut, it was Nellie Warren who found a ring to her shoe. "I've had the most delightful time," she sighed as they said good night.

"I shall never forget it," he said gravely, "and perhaps, tomorrow you will let me come and bring Cinderella's slippers."

"You had them?" she gasped.

He nodded. "Mine went to you, and yours to me. If I had not seen you—no, that's not true, for he was saying too much for a short acquaintance."

"I may come!" she asked instead.

"Of course—I am staying with the Flemmings."

So he went home—back to his rooms where the golden slippers were tucked in his chest-drawer. Suppose he did take them out of their wrappings and reverently kiss each bit of glistening gold—were they not the shoes of destiny—had not their owner danced her way into his heart? And she—had not their eyes met?

He put the shoes away. His young eyes dreamed.

He knew that love had come at last.

HARD LUCK, INDEED, FOR THE GOSSIPS

A conversation between two women, one of whom was hard of hearing, interested the passengers of a crowded car.

"I saw her on the street downtown with a man."

"Is that so?"

"Yes, and it was after ten o'clock, too."

"The very idea."

"I never suspected her of flirting before."

"No, nor me, either."

"But you can never tell."

"Ain't it the truth?"

"It is that."

"Do you know her husband?"

"No, I ain't never seen him close."

"Well, he is a big fat man."

"Does he wear a brown suit?"

"Yes."

"Smoke a pipe?"

"Uh, huh!"

There was deepest disappointment in the woman's voice as she exclaimed:

New Holdup Wrinkle

A brand-new type of holdup man appeared recently near Woodland, Calif. Martin Besefert, rancher, was chasing peacefully through the night in his small automobile when a car containing three men drew alongside. One of them deftly twirled a lasso over Besefert's car and it was dragged into a ditch. The victim's automobile was damaged, stripped of accessories and Besefert was robbed of $10 in cash.

Italy Bars Bargaining

Tourists to Italy who follow the advice given in guidebooks as to bargain stores and shops may now find it very difficult, if not impossible, to get even a few cents taken off the prices asked. Following the revaluation of the lira, a decree has been issued making fixed prices obligatory on all shopkeepers. Only in the case of high-class jewelry, valuable pictures and antique furniture, may bargaining still be resorted to legally.

THE COLDER THE BETTER

Do you like your food served cold there, that hot days of summer? The colder the better? As a matter of fact, the majority of people—for the refreshing effects of a chilled dessert or a cool, crisp salad are well known.

Of all the fruits in common use, pineapple is one of the best for summer, for its sweet, yet slightly sharp, flavor has decidedly cooling properties. And when the pineapple dish is chilled or frozen, the flavor seems somehow to be intensified.

This is the reason why the use of pineapple in summer desserts and salads has become so popular with the wise housewife. She serves pineapple sherbet and ice cream, and makes it a part of her choicest salads. Pineapple, mango, papaya, and gelatin with pineapple are all on the list of desserts. And what better combination could there be in a cocktail than pineapple and summer fruits?

Here are some of the recipes for cooling dishes which bring out the full flavor of the pineapple.

Cooling Climaxes

Pineapple Mint Bavarian: Soften one tablespoon gelatin in two tablespoons cold water. Bring the contents of one tumbler 2 can of crushed Hawaiian pineapple, one-third cup mint jelly, and three tablespoons sugar to boiling, and simmer until jelly and sugar dissolve. Pour over gelatin and stir until it also is dissolved. Cool, and when just about to set, whip one cup of cream and fold into the gelatin. Scrape into mold.

Fruited Blue Cream: Beat one cup of heavy cream and add two cups of pineapple juice and one-half cup of sugar. Beat for two hours, then cut into one-half inch pieces. Combine two cups drained Hawaiian pineapple and the cream, and mix with one-fourth cup of pineapple dressing. Arrange on bed of crisp lettuce and garnish with celery curls. Top with sprig of pineapple.

sections dipped in granulated sugar.

Coffee Pineapple Foam: Soften one tablespoon gelatin in two tablespoons cold water then dissolve in one cup hot coffee. Add one-third cup sugar and one-half cup pineapple syrup. Cool, and when about to set, beat until creamy with an egg beater. Add one cup diced sliced pineapple, one-half cup chopped nuts and the stiffly beaten whites of two eggs, and let harden. Serve very cold, topped with whipped cream.

Pineapple Blue Meringue: Scald two and one-half cups milk in double boiler. Thoroughly blend seven tablespoons cornstarch, one-fourth teaspoon salt and one-half cup pineapple syrup. Add very carefully to the milk to prevent curdling, and cook in double boiler until thick, stirring constantly. Remove from heat, fold in two stiffly beaten egg whites and one cup crushed Hawaiian pineapple. Mold and chill. Serve with cream.

Some Refreshing Salads

Surprise Salad: Combine one and one-half cups cream cheese (three ounce size), two tablespoons cream, one-fourth teaspoon salt, dash paprika and pepper and three drops onion juice. Beat with fork until smooth and creamy. Clean ten sticks of celery (each five inches long); fill cavities with the cheese mixture. Chill for two hours, then cut into one-half inch pieces. Combine two cups drained Hawaiian pineapple and the celery, and mix with one-fourth cup of pineapple dressing. Arrange on bed of crisp lettuce and garnish with celery curls. Top with sprig of pineapple.

Pineapple Orange Ice: Beat one cup sugar and two cups water for five minutes. Cool, and add one cup orange juice, the grated rind of one orange and one and one-half cups syrup drained from crushed pineapple. Allow to stand one hour, strain and freeze.

Pineapple Orange Ice: Boil one cup sugar and two cups water for five minutes. Cool, and add one cup orange juice, the grated rind of one orange and one and one-half cups syrup drained from crushed pineapple. Allow to stand one hour, strain and freeze.

It Was "Blind Man's Luck"

By HELEN R. BARTON

"YOU are making a mistake, my boy," said Stephen Brand to his nephew. "Money isn't everything. You can win and lose a whole lot of money but the sunsets and rainbows and beauties of nature can only do your soul good through the medium of your eyes. It is a mistake to risk possible blindness for money and the things it can buy."

The telephone shrilled and Dexter Brand went smiling to answer it, his old uncle's advice already slipping heedlessly away.

Dexter left the telephone, having promised to take Adele Merner to the theater that night and a night club afterward. It was because of Adele that Dexter was driving himself on to possible wealth. Adele with the corn-color hair and the corn-flower eyes and the eager, greedy pursuit of everything that was new, expensive and interesting, Adele who inspired a fellow to tread the rosy clouds of high romance with her soft, tender, babyish little ways, so cleverly concealing the hard, brittle, calculating spirit underneath.

"Did you see a doctor, Dex?" asked Adele as she snuggled down in the roadster that night on the way to the theater.

"Advised me to lay off—get away from my invention."

"Oh! But why? Is he afraid? Why did he advise that, Dex?"

"Oh, he mentioned possible blindness, later on."

"But Dexter—not before you've finished your invention?" asked Adele, a sharp little clip to her usually soft voice.

"Oh, no. I'll have that done. Don't worry. I only saw one specialist; another might disagree entirely with him!"

"There's a young lady waiting in the reception room," announced Biggs, Uncle Steve's aged butler, a few days later. "She said something about an ad."

Robbing his achting eyes nervously with his thin hands, Dexter gazed upon the most beautiful girl he had ever seen.

"You wanted a secretary who understood mechanical business enough to take notes, and I feel qualified, because you see my father was an inventor."

The voice was low and sweet; in perfect keeping with her beauty, Dexter decided, and he flushed as he said: "I'm sure you'll do. But the salary is small, and you'll have to live here with my uncle and me. I work all hours, you know!"

"That will be quite all right; I'm familiar with the erratic hours of inventors," she said, smiling, and Dexter forgot his eyes for the first time in many weeks.

In the sputtering light of an ancient torch, the grotesque figure of a man in a green hood stood feverishly at a work bench. At his side, a girl with curling coppery hair working equally fast at a note book.

The telephone rang and Sheila Burns went reluctantly to answer it. "For you, Mr. Brand. Miss Merner."

"Sorry," said Dexter into the receiver. "It's impossible, Adele. Oh, be sensible, for heaven's sake! It won't be more than a day more."

Then a sharp gasp as a pain, a moment of doubt and then: "Find a lamp, will you, Miss Burns—the lights seem to have left us. What? My God!" And that was how Dexter Brand found himself suddenly stopped, just as success and fame seemed within reach.

Adele went abroad the next week, after she had ascertained definitely from Sheila Burns that Dexter might be blind a lifetime and that he had most certainly not finished the invention that was to make him rich and famous.

"I guess you were right, uncle," remarked Dexter one morning. "I should have stopped to store up a few memories, with my eyes. Now I've lost the eyes and the possible money, too! And even the woman I loved turned me down."

"I used to think that Sheila liked me a little," he went on, "but even she seems to have forgotten me."

"Oh, no I haven't, I've just been busy," remarked Sheila who had just come in. "I've been down to register your patent and see a specialist."

"Why?" demanded the blind man. "Surely not for money! You alone knew how little I had!"

"No. Can't you understand that one does things for other reasons?"

"Yes, I know that, now. But even if you did—like me a lot, I may never be able to act you—"

"That's true; because I wouldn't marry you if you were well. And I'm pretty certain that you won't be blind very long—not if this German specialist is right."

"If you mean that you care enough for me to—marry me—now?" asked Dexter softly.

"If you don't ask me pretty soon your chance will be gone!"

"Come here, you darling," he said, half under his breath, and when she stood before him, he rose unsteadily, and gathered her hungrily into his arms, murmuring incoherent terms of endearment.

A long time later, after Sheila had gone, he told his amazing luck to his delighted uncle, adding, "Blind man's luck, eh?"

MICKIE SAYS—

Nation's Public Schools Must Set Moral as Well as Educational Standards

By DR. MARTIN G. BRUMBAUGH, Ex-Governor of Pennsylvania.

The hope of tomorrow lies in the public schools. What's needed is not that the schools should teach arithmetic—but teach being honest. Not that the schools should teach to parse—but to behave.

The American people went into a jazz spree after the war. We bought things whether or not we had money to pay for them. We became the most extravagant people the world has ever known.

But when men become extravagant and wasteful their morals decay. When Sweden gave physical examination to its young men of military age last May, only 8 per cent were rejected. In the United States, at the beginning of the World War, 27 per cent were rejected—and with a much lower physical requirement. The explanation is that for a generation the Swedish youth has been given careful physical instruction in the schools.

Any child who buys an education at the cost of health pays a price too high either for the individual or the state. We haven't yet seriously approached that problem.

What are we doing to solve our Americanism problem? All immigrants who don't learn English in five years should be sent back.

Our churches are losing membership—not on their rolls, but in their pews. The home has failed to take up its share of the moral problem. It's not a boy-and-girl problem we face, but a mother-and-father problem. And now in the schools you've got to set the moral as well as the educational standards. America is suffering for need of great spiritual leadership.

Lesson for November 4

WORLD'S TEMPERANCE SUNDAY

LESSON TEXT—Romans 13:1-4.
GOLDEN TEXT—Love worketh on all to his neighbor, therefore love is the fulfilling of the law.

PHILIPPIANS—Obedience to Law.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Reasons for Prohibition.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Standing for Law Enforcement.

1. The Christian's Obligation to the State (vs. 1-4).

The believer in Christ is a citizen as well as a Christian. Intelligent Christians will be loyal to the state as well as to the church. Failure to recognize this has brought Christianity into disrepute in many quarters.

1. Obedience to rulers (vs. 1-4).

This obligation is upon all Christians. The reason is that civil government is ordained of God and rulers are His representatives. To refuse obedience to civil authority is to refuse obedience to God. This does not mean that a Christian is to be a lawbreaker. He is to be a lawbreaker only in the sense that he is to be a lawbreaker who is not a lawbreaker.

2. The spirit in which the Christian renders obedience to rulers (vs. 5).

He should regard it as his obligation, not merely because it serves a good purpose, but because it is morally right. It is a conscientious obligation to obey lawful rulers.

3. Method of expressing this obedience (vs. 6, 7).

(1) In the payment of personal and property taxes.

The citizens who enjoy the benefits of government are morally bound to support it.

(2) Payment of duty upon merchandise.

The business exchange between nations must be regulated. For each regulation expense is incurred, for which benefit the citizen should pay.

(3) Veneration of magistrates (vs. 7).

Those who have the fear of God in their hearts will venerate their rulers. God's representatives.

(4) Honor to whom honor.

This means that civil officers should be honored because of their service.

II. The Christian's Obligation to His Fellow Citizens (vs. 8-10).

This is summed up in the word "love." This obligation is perpetual.

The only debt which is right to one is that of love. The discharge of this obligation forbids:

(1) Defrauding in matters of property (vs. 8).

(2) It forbids going into debt with no certainty of being able to meet one's obligation.

(3) It forbids defrauding in matters of moral purity (vs. 9). Where the life is under the power of love, adultery cannot be committed.

(4) It forbids murder.

(5) It forbids covetousness.

(6) It forbids the working of any ill to one's neighbor.

III. The Supreme Motive Governing the Life of the Christian (vs. 11-13).

The attitude of the Christian is that of eager expectancy. There is no time for slumber or indifference. The time of salvation is drawing near. The salvation here mentioned is not that which we obtain by justification and sanctification, but is that which we get when our redemption is completed in glorification at the second coming of Christ. Redemption is therefore:

1. Justification through faith in the blood of Jesus.

2. Sanctification through the abiding of the Word.

3. Glorification, when the process of

SECOND EXAMINATION FOR PROHIBITION AGENTS

Shortage of Eligibles in Many Sections

The United States Civil Service Commission today announced the second examination for agents under the Bureau of Prohibition.

The examinations held last year failed to furnish a sufficient number of eligibles for many of the prohibition districts. The new examination will be held throughout the country to supply the shortage of eligibles and to provide a register from which vacancies occurring later may be filled.

Applications for the examination will be received by the Civil Service Commission until Nov. 20.

The entrance salaries for agents range from $2,300 to $2,800 a year. As the Bureau of Prohibition states that it will be its policy to fill the positions of investigator and inspector by promotion, persons desiring appointment to those positions should enter the agent examination.

Applicants must have reached their twenty-third but not their thirty-seventh birthday on the date of the examination. These age limits do not apply to persons entitled to preference because of military or naval service. The Bureau of Prohibition states that men are desired for the positions.

The examination will consist of mental tests, practical reports based on the duties of the position, and a rating on training, experience, and fitness. Those who do not meet the minimum experience requirement will not be admitted to the written test. Those who qualify on the written part of the examination will be called for a personal interview and will be subject to a further investigation of their fitness. The finger prints of all applicants who are investigated will be taken and will be used to check the accuracy of the applicant's statements as to arrest, indictment, or conviction for crime or misdemeanor.

Full information may be obtained from the United States Civil Service Commission, Washington, D. C. or from the Secretary of the United States Civil Service Board at the post office or postmaster in any city.

WHAT IT COSTS TO GOVERN US

By PROF. M. H. MUMTER
Dept. of Economics, Univ. of Illinois

The Federal Income Tax

THE emergency of the Civil war was responsible for the first attempt by the federal government to tax incomes. The Supreme court upheld the tax as not being a direct levy under the meaning of the Constitution. The tax was given up in 1872.

The Gorman-Wilson tariff act of 1894 contemplated a considerable falling off in revenues. To compensate for this, a part of the act provided for a tax on personal incomes. The Supreme court, however, took the position that such a tax was a direct tax and therefore unconstitutional.

Continued agitation resulted in the Sixteenth amendment which gave congress power to levy a tax upon incomes from whatever source derived. The income tax of 1913 provided for a tax of 1 per cent upon the entire taxable income, with additional progressive rates ranging from 1 per cent to 6 per cent. The exemptions were $3,000 and $4,000.

During the war the tax rates on incomes were greatly increased. These reached their maximum under the revenue law of 1918. Under this law the normal rate was 6 per cent on the first $4,000 taxable income and 12 per cent on the remainder. The surtax ranged from 1 per cent to 65 per cent, the latter applying to the amount of taxable income in excess of $1,000,000. This made any income in excess of $1,000,000 subject to a federal tax of 77 per cent.

After the war there was agitation for reduction in income tax rates. These came in the revenue laws of 1921, 1924 and 1926. Progressive rates are found both in the normal tax and in the surtax. The normal tax rates are 1 1/2 per cent on the first $4,000, 3 per cent on the next $4,000, and 5 per cent on the remainder.

Under the 1926 law the surtax rates range from 1 per cent to 20 per cent. The 1 per cent begins to apply when the taxable income reaches $10,000. The rate of 20 per cent applies to all taxable income in excess of $100,000. Under this law, also, all taxable incomes of $5,000 or less are considered earned, while as much as $20,000 may come in this class. Earned incomes are allowed a rebate of one-fourth of the tax. The exemptions are $1,500 and $3,000.

FOR THE HOUSEKEEPER

Tea and coffee should be kept in flavor.

Sunshine will keep white woodwork a good color. Too much gloom tends to make it yellow.

The sharpening stone should be washed after each using if good service is expected.

Sometimes cloudy windows only need wiping with a clean cloth to make them quite clean again.

If your sweet grass basket is beginning to lose its fragrance, dip it in boiling water. When it dries it will be sweet-smelling once more.

HAPPY THOUGHTS

Women make all the trouble in life, but it's the women who make life worth the trouble.

The honeymoon is that part of a girl's life that comes between the lip-stick and the broomstick.

Man was made before woman to give him a chance to think of a good reply to her first question.

Life is full of compensations, and the man who cannot reckon on his friends can always count on his fingers.

When you speak to other people for their good, it is influence; when other people speak to you for your good, it's interference.

Scheme Didn't Work

An English druggist who attempted to sell medicated cigarettes as a cure for colds, nasal catarrh, asthma and bronchitis discovered that it could not be done. Cigarettes that contained catfoot, thyme, rose petals and lavender in addition to tobacco, are banned by the law against "adulterated" tobacco; the court ruled, and freed the offender.

PEPPY POINTS

It's a rare treat when a miser invites you to join him.

Allimony is the capital prize in the matrimonial lottery.

Friends' good luck worries some people more than anything else.

People who don't spend their money as we think they should are miserly.

The only way some married people avoid quarrelling is by refusing to make up.

Man and pins are similar, because neither is of much use after losing its head.

Man seeketh in society comfort, use and protection.—Bacon.

There is no substitute for thoroughgoing, ardent and sincere earnestness.—Dickens.

Levity is often less foolish and gravity less wise than each of them appears.—Colton.

Good breeding shows itself most where, to an ordinary eye, it appears the least.—Addison.

The most certain sign of being born with great qualities is to be born without envy.—La Rochefoucauld.

The law of simplicity and plainness holds good in all fine art, for it is compatible with what is most sublime.—Schopenhauer.

The essential difference between painting and dabbling is that a painter lays on not a grain more color than is needed.—Ruskin.

When a true genius appears in the world you may know him by this sign, that the dunces are all in confederacy against him.—Swift.

We should never speak publicly at least, of our own faults, nor of the others, unless we hope to effect some useful purpose of it.—Goethe.

Many men are angry with them that tell them of their faults, when they should be angry only with the faults that are told them.—Yenning.

He had such a gentle method of reproving their faults that they were not so much afraid of him as to repeat them.—Atterbury.

The reproof of a good man resembles fuller's earth; it not only removes the spots from our character, but it rubs off when it is dry.—Williamson.

POINTED PARAGRAPHS

There is always a mystery about how the people next door live.

All love messages of the prudent man are of the wireless variety.

Bashful lovers and kernels of corn usually turn white when they pop.

Many a man's empty pockets are due to his wife's fondness for change.

It isn't what your grandfather was, but what you are, that really counts.

Fish may be good brain food; when there is something for it to assimilate with.

Truly does a man always know less after marriage than he thinks he knows before.

If we listen to the troubles of other people it sometimes makes us better satisfied with our own.

It is only in accord with the eternal fitness of things that police telegraph wires should be made of copper.

It is universally believed that the average actress marries for publication only and not a guaranty of good faith.

BY THE OFFICE OWL

This is an age of efficiency. Even the first day of April is now fool proof.

Blessings come disguised. Most of us get what we deserve without recognizing it.

You never can tell. Church going is merely the Sunday supplement of many a man's religion.

The Cynical Bachelor observes that it takes two to make a marriage, but one can make a mess of it.

One difference between good luck and bad luck is that good luck comes on gum shoes while bad luck hies a brass band.

Some of the people who buy their friends insist upon having them made to order, others are satisfied with the ready-made kind.

Blobs—"I size up your friend Slicker as a peanut politician." Slobbs—"Possibly, possibly; but I have never known him to shell out."

Muggins—"Dollittle attributes his failure in life to the fact that he has never had a show." Buggins—"That's because he is always waiting for a free pass."

"We should all profit by our mistakes," admonished the good deacon. "Yes, even the clergyman does that when he accepts a wedding fee," chuckled the unregenerate backslider.

WORDS OF WISE MEN

A lucky man is rarer than a white crow.—Juvenal.

He travels safest who travels lightest.—Prescott.

The judge is condemned when the guilty is acquitted.—Syrus.

There is more self-love than love in jealousy.—La Rochefoucauld.

An orator without judgment is a horse without a bridle.—Theophrastus.

Sorrow's crown of sorrow is remembering happier things.—Tennyson.

The mind begins to boggle at unnatural substances as things paradoxical and incomprehensible.—South.

There is no life of a man, faithfully recorded, but is a heroic poem of his sort, rhymed or unrhymed.—Carlyle.

The law is the last result of human wisdom acting upon human experience for the benefit of the public.—Johnson.

AMERICAN GIRLS ARE TERRIBLY UN-FAIR.—Anita Loos.

Facts are our nearest raw material.—Owen D. Young.

No country can exist without religion.—Gen. Obregon of Mexico.

Thinking is the hardest work that human beings do.—Henry Ford.

GEMS OF THOUGHT

Better a little chiding than a great deal of heartbreak.—Shakespeare.

Don't carry your wife home where your backbone ought to be.—L. W. Heasley.

Education is a capital to the poor man, and an interest to the rich man.—Horace Mann.

Education must always be defined in terms of life of growth, of progress.—John Grier Hibben.

Child him for faults, and do it reverently when you perceive his heart inclined to mirth.—Shakespeare.

I will chide no breather in the world but myself, against whom I know most faults.—Shakespeare.

Real education means teaching children to be clean, active, honest and useful.—John Ruskin.

The silent upbraiding of the eye is the very poetry of reproach; it speaks at once to the imagination.—Mrs. H. F. F.
